

Jill S. Bates, PharmD, MS, BCOP

Recipient of the 2014 Milton W. Skolaut Leadership Award

Jill S. Bates, PharmD, MS, BCOP is an Attending Pharmacist in Malignant Hematology at the University of North Carolina Medical Center and an Assistant Professor of Clinical Education at the UNC Eshelman School of Pharmacy in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. She received her Doctor of Pharmacy degree at the University of Illinois at Chicago and a research-based Master of Science in Biochemistry and Biophysics from Northern Illinois University. Jill completed an ASHP-accredited pharmacy practice (PGY1) and oncology (PGY2) residency at Duke University Hospital. Jill is Board-certified in Oncology Pharmacy. Prior to entering the profession of pharmacy, Jill was a high school science teacher.

As part of her professional service, Jill has been an active member of ASHP as well as HOPA. Jill's involvement with ASHP has included serving on the Council on Therapeutics as Vice Chair and Chair. In addition, she served on the New Practitioner Education Advisory Group and as a member of the Educational Steering Committee and Clinical Leadership Section Advisory Group for the Section of Clinical Specialists and Scientists. In 2012, Jill was elected Chair of the Section of Clinical Specialists and Scientists and currently serves in this role. Jill has been involved in several HOPA committees including the Education Committee and the BCOP Review Panel Committee. Jill holds a leadership position on the UNC Chemotherapy Policy Advisory Group and participates in the Oncology Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee, Oncology Patient Education Committee and the Interdisciplinary Triad Committee for performance improvement of the acute care hematology/oncology service line. As part of her professional service, Jill is an active manuscript reviewer for various pharmacy journals.